 RE: ROBERT McCain NYSID# 4638442M; DIN#81B1327, HEARING, JUNE 2017

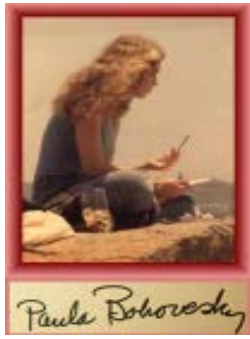

Richard LaBarbera and Robert McCain were convicted in the brutal murder of 16-year-old Pearl River honor student Paula Bohovesky, which took place on Oct. 28, 1980 just blocks from her home. She was pulled off the street at 7 p.m. as she walked home from her afterschool job at the local library. She was dragged up the driveway of a vacant home, where she was brutally beaten, stabbed and left to die alone in a pool of her own blood with her clothing in disarray. The popular, talented young woman with a limitless future was found dead near dawn. LaBarbera and McCain had spent the day drinking in a nearby bar. They were arrested within days and charged with Paula's murder. Then and now, they deny personal responsibility, each pointing to the other as solely to blame. They were tried and convicted and sentenced to 25-years-to-life in prison. Since becoming eligible for parole in 2005, each has had a parole hearing approximately every two years and in all cases they have been denied their freedom. They are now up for parole again in 2017. Dr. Zugibe, the medical examiner at the time, said it was the most brutal attack he had ever seen. We believe those who commit such violent crimes cannot be trusted not to kill again. We do not believe either Richard LaBarbera or Robert McCain should be granted parole and we plead with you to help us deny it to them as part of society's responsibility to protect the innocent.
